The Worlds Literature Festival will take place from 20th-24th June in the heart of Norwich. This yearly festival run by Writers' Centre Norwich brings writers from across the globe together to celebrate the best in world writing in a city which has an international reputation for literature in many spheres.

This year's festival includes an eclectic range of events with a great line up of authors:

On Monday 20th June Dame A.S. Byatt (The Children's Book, Possession) launches Granta magazine's new edition; the F word. The event features Grant's Deputy Editor Ellah Allfrey in conversation with three writers who feature in the magazine; A.S. Byatt, Urvashi Butalia and Maja Hrgovic.

The following evening Your Summer Reads with Katie Kitamura, Andrey Kurkov and Evie Wyld is a chance for readers to ask questions of the authors whose books have been leaping off the shelf due to the popular Summer Reads campaign.

The week is also Refugee Week and as such Hisham Matar, Tahmima Anam and Philo Ikonya will come together for an special evening of readings and discussion on Wednesday 22nd June. Matar's dissident father went missing 21 years ago in Libya and this informed both of his acclaimed novels; In The Country Of Men and Anatomy Of A Disappearance. Tahmima Anam's The Good Muslim features the fall-out from war, and is a great follow up to the successful A Golden Age whilst Kenyan writer in exile and activist Philo Ikonya's voice completes an inspiring line-up.

Finally, John Boyne (The Boy in the Striped Pyjamas) and Joseph O'Connor (Star of the Sea) will read at an event celebrating Norwich's bid to join UNESCO City of Literature. Boyne's latest novel, The Absolutist has just been serialised on Radio Four and features war time Norwich whilst O'Connor, whose Star of the Sea was a Richard and Judy favourite, will be reading from Ghost Light, a moving tale of love and loss.

As well as these public events, students from the University of East Anglia will meet the writers at a set of readings and discussion based at the UEA. The writers will also be producing short pieces of literature about Norwich, which will be used in a special project celebrating Norwich's UNESCO status in 2012.
